Re: Chapter 11
Case # 08-35653(KRH)

According to paragraph five this is my DISCLOSURE STATEMENT.

- a. Must be in writing.
- b. State the name of objecting/responding party:

Michael Cullen
22 Gloucester Court
Newington, CT 06111

Back in the wintertime of 2008, around November/December, I was in between jobs. As a full time freshman at Manchester Community College, I searched the Internet for job opportunities in my area and Circuit City on the Berlin Turnpike in Newington, CT was hiring. I filled out an online application, where I disclosed my name, address, social security number, and other personal information and the next day I received a phone call to come in and interview. I followed up and went to the interview.

When I walked into the interview, I recognized a girl from high school named Casondra Rodriguez. Casondra's manager was the one that interviewed with. We went to his office and he quizzed me on my past work experiences and different work scenarios. After about 45 minutes the interview was over and I left.

About a week went by and I found a part time job and no longer needed the Circuit City job. The manager that had interviewed me began to call me and set up my first day of work. All the calls after my interview went straight to my voicemail and were never returned by me. The phone calls and voice messages didn't stop until about mid-January.

Then, on August 31, 2009 I received a piece of mail of Circuit City that baffled me. I opened it up to find out that Circuit City is suing and labeling me a "debtor" when I've never worked for their company or bought any of their merchandise. I believe that my identity might have been stolen and used a negative way against the Circuit City company.

If there is anything you like to discuss further at anytime, my cell phone number is (860) 874 2410. I'm willing to get to the bottom of this just as much as you are. This can be a black eye on my credit forever that was never in my hands.
